Why on Earth did Jesus Died?:: John Paul II on the Revelation of Divine Love Bartholomew Okonkwo
Christianity, unlike any other religion in the world, begins with catastrophe and defeat. Sunshine religions and psychological inspirations collapse in calamity and wither in adversity. But the life of the founder of Christianity, having begun with the cross, ends with the empty tomb and victory. Working from scripture, the Church fathers, and contemporary scholarship, in this collection of the most salient Wednesday Audiences from Pope John Paul II on the latter half of the second article of the Nicene Creed, which tells the story of Salvation draws us into a mysterious and controverted field of thought: How did Jesus interpret His death? Is there healing in the atonement? Why was He put to death, what were the reasons for His execution as the King of the Jews in Jerusalem? What does the blood of Jesus do for us, and what does it do for God? And the volume takes up all these questions, not to mention the bodily resurrection of Jesus on Easter Sunday, was that a historical event, was it a transcendent event, how do we understand it? Was the tomb really empty? It applies all of these to the Gospel, through the light of faith and gives us something that will truly delight the reader and nourish the soul.
